A Century Ago....

Did you know a hundred years ago the Moorestown Improvement Association (MIA) was working towards the betterment of our town? Our town - that now a century later - has been named the "Best Place to Live" in the country?

That's right in 1906 the MIA (founded in 1904 as the Village Improvement Association) had just completed one of its first major projects. Replacing the "boardwalks" with the first brick and concrete sidewalks in town.

This newsletter also honors one of the first achievements of the MIA. The publication of a free monthly newspaper called - Village Improvement. "Village Notes" will continue to bring you news about MIA's latest undertakings and many past accomplishments for the "improvement" of our hometown - Moorestown.

Mission Statement

The Moorestown Improvement Association is dedicated to preserving and enhancing the quality of life in the community. Members strive to advance the common good through personal commitment, active participation, and financial support. Activities focus on historic preservation, heritage appreciation, the perpetuation of the tree planting tradition, and environmental concerns.

Welcome to Moorestown signs

Have you seen our latest project? In 2005, the new "Welcome to Historic Moorestown" signs began to be installed at all the entrances to the town.

The new signs are to replace all of the small old metal entry signs at the borders of town. MIA worked with resident and then Moorestown High School student Nick Zegel to design the look of the new signs.

Then another Moorestown resident Ron Brodie, who is also the owner of NW Signs, helped to make the signs a reality.

At this point 15 signs have been installed in various locations on county and local roads leading into the township. A smaller version is presently being manufactured to be installed on the remainder of the entries to town were space does not allow the full size sign to be installed.

The larger prototype sign that was made during the long process was installed at the entrance to Town Hall and the library. The sign was dedicated by MIA members on May 27, 2005.

MIA is already working on it's next initiative. Watch for future news. Thanks to the many people who helped make these signs a reality.
